

Human Geography, Urban Studies and Environment and Sustainability

Spring/Summer 2023

Welcome

For us, Human Geography, Urban Studies and Environment and Sustainability are important wide-ranging subjects that are core to tackling the biggest global challenges we are facing in our society, cities and our climate today and urgent action and change is needed.

We aim to engage in thoughtful, critical and practical ways with how the world is today and where it might be heading, and our books and series range from issues around equality, population growth, urbanisation, climate change, resource threats, sustainability, postcolonialism and urban development. We welcome new book and series proposals, from specialist research monographs to topical titles for a wider audience that look towards the future global landscape and are interdisciplinary and international in scope.

If you have an idea for a new book or series in Human Geography, Urban Studies, Environment and Sustainability that you would like to discuss please contact our editor Emily Watt:

All We Want is the Earth

Land, Labour and Movements Beyond Environmentalism

Patrick Bresnihan, Maynooth University and Naomi Millner, University of Bristol

Sixty years ago an upsurge of social movements protested the ecological harms of industrial capitalism. In subsequent decades, environmentalism consolidated into forms of management and business strategy that aimed to tackle ecological degradation while enabling development to continue. However, the increasing focus on spaces and species to be protected saw questions of human work and histories of colonialism pushed out of view.

This book traces a counter-history of modern environmentalism from the 1960s to the present day. It focuses on claims concerning land, labour and social reproduction arising at important moments in the history of environmentalism made by feminist, anti-colonial, Indigenous, workers' and agrarian movements. Many of these movements did not consider themselves 'environmental', and yet they offer vital ways forward in the face of escalating ecological damage and social injustice.

The Battle for Britain

Crises, Culture Wars and COVID-19

John Clarke, The Open University

This book addresses the social, political and economic turbulence in which the UK is embroiled. Drawing on Cultural Studies, it explores proliferating crises and conflicts, from the multiplying varieties of social dissent through the stagnation of rentier capitalism to the looming climate catastrophe.

Examining arguments about Brexit, class and 'race', and the changing character of the state, the book is underpinned by a transnational and relational conception of the UK. It traces the entangled dynamics of time and space that have shaped the current conjuncture.

Questioning whether increasingly anti-democratic and authoritarian strategies can provide a resolution to these troubles, it explores how the accumulating crises and conflicts have produced a deepening 'crisis of authority' that forms the terrain of the Battle for Britain.

The Practice of Collective Escape

Politics, Justice and Community in Urban Growing Projects

Helen Traill, University of Glasgow

Drawing on ethnographic research in urban growing projects in Glasgow, this book explores community dynamics and asks who benefits from such projects. A timely consideration of localism and community empowerment, the book sheds light on key issues of urban land use, the right to the city and the value of social connection.

Transforming Agriculture and Foodways

The Digital-Molecular Convergence

David Goodman, University of California, Santa Cruz

A wave of innovation driven by the convergence of digital and molecular technologies is transforming food production and ways of eating in the US, Western Europe and Australasia. This book explores a range of contemporary agri-food issues, such as the digitalisation of farm production, aka Precision Agriculture, farmer independence, gene editing, alternative proteins and the rise of app-based home food deliveries.

This is the first book to provide a systemic analysis of technological innovation and its socioeconomic consequences in modern food systems, including the 'hollowing out' of rural communities and pronounced industrial concentration. The food system is under growing public pressure to respond to global climate change but this book finds little evidence of transition to sustainable low-carbon trajectories.

Retail Ruins

The Ghosts of Post-Industrial Spectacle

Jacob C. Miller, Northumbria University

From zombie malls to declining high streets, the urban consumption landscape is experiencing an emerging post-industrial decay familiar to many of us – the retail ruin. Drawing on fieldnotes and photographs, this book takes inspiration from Jacques Derrida and Walter Benjamin in its hauntological approach to these ‘new’ ruins in the contemporary city.

Disasters and Changes into Society and Politics

Contemporary Perspectives from Italy

Giuseppe Forino, Bangor University

This book brings a critical perspective to post-disaster reconstruction in Italy, and the sometimes radical changes in individual and collective behaviours that persist following such events. Considering the impacts of climate change and COVID-19, this edited book will stimulate debate on policy and practice in disaster recovery.

P

Beyond Climate Fixes

From Public Controversy to System Change

Les Levidow, The Open University

The slogan 'System Change Not Climate Change' neatly summarises many climate protestors' calls to transform the dominant production systems causing climate change. While the political system advocates the existing strategies of carbon trading and future technologies, Les Levidow argues that this techno-market framework perpetuates environmental harm.

This book moves beyond a critique of the solutions offered by the neoliberal order to explore alternative policies for real system change.

A Just Energy Transition

Getting Decarbonisation Right in a Time of Crisis

Ed Atkins, University of Bristol

In this timely book, Ed Atkins asks if we are getting decarbonisation right and how it could be made better for people and communities. In doing so, he proposes a different type of energy transition, one that prioritises and takes opportunities to do better – to provide better jobs, community ownership and improve people's homes and lives.

The Waste of the World

Consumption, Economies and the Making of the Global Waste Problem

Nicky Gregson, Durham University

Examining the root causes of the global waste problem, this book challenges existing policies, highlighting what needs to change if we are to get serious in tackling this global problem. It concludes with policy implications for shifting waste from an 'end-of-pipe' concern to being at the heart of the debate over decarbonisation.

Infrastructuring Urban Futures

The Politics of Remaking Cities

Edited by Alan Wiig, University of Massachusetts, Boston, Kevin Ward, University of Manchester, Theresa Enright, University of Toronto, Mike Hodson, University of Manchester, Hamil Pearsall, Temple University and Jonathan Silver, University of Sheffield

Focusing on material and social forms of infrastructure, this edited collection focuses on cities across the Global North and South. Considering public health crises and climate change, the book argues that paying attention to infrastructures' past, present and future allows us to understand and respond to the current urban condition.

Peer-reviewed books and journals tackling global social challenges.

This new platform offers you instant access to Bristol University Press and Policy Press digital content: ebooks, journal articles and collections from across the social sciences, including the new, non-profit, Open Access (OA) Global Social Challenges Journal.

Bristol University Press Digital, launched in Spring 2022, has been developed as part of our mission to publish research that tackles the biggest problems facing the world today.

The platform provides users with e-collections in the social sciences, uniquely curated and themed around the global social challenges and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), enabling scholarly communities and practitioners with crucial insights to effect positive change in the world.

Benefits for academics, researchers and libraries include:

- 1,500+ books, 18 journals and 90 OA titles, all tagged and searchable by global social challenges;
- Access to our innovative new OA Global Social Challenges Journal, which breaks down boundaries to participation in, and access to, truly global social science research;
- An innovative tagging system, saving libraries time and resource in collating content and maintaining collection relevance to rapidly evolving themes;
- Maximum discoverability of our authors' work across books and journals;
- An intuitive and easy-to-use solution for both readers and librarians;
- Key industry standards for accessibility (WAGC 2.0) and reporting (COUNTER-compliant statistics).

Bristol University Press Digital is revolutionising the way scholarly communities search, experience and share content by connecting you with research that addresses the global social challenges.

Global Social Challenges Journal

NON-PROFIT, OPEN ACCESS
PUBLISHING FOR CHANGE

NOW ONLINE

Bristol University Press is delighted to announce our new fully Open Access journal.

"I'm proud to see Bristol University Press launching this important new journal, which promises to address the most urgent complexities of global social challenges by drawing together accessible international scholarship across the disciplines to inform policy and practice."

PROFESSOR JUDITH SQUIRES, DEPUTY VICE-CHANCELLOR AND PROVOST, UNIVERSITY OF BRISTOL

How can we reimagine society in an era of climate change, pandemic, hunger, poverty, questions of racial, ethnic and gender justice and other pressing global societal challenges? Significant threats and dangers lie ahead of us, but so do opportunities, as new ways of being, thinking and doing emerge. This new, fully Open Access journal aims to facilitate thinking about these positive new trajectories and to become the journal of choice to address the complexities of global social challenges across disciplines and fields.

It is the first such journal to be based in the social sciences while also engaging with research from humanities, arts and STEM. Including marginalised, minority and indigenous world views, the journal will be an important home for research that contributes to the creation of alternative futures that acknowledge past injustices and are socially and environmentally just and sustaining.

"In the future the most transformative research and scholarship is likely to occur at the nexus or intersection between traditional disciplines and professional boundaries. Global Discourse is arguably the world-leading journal for provoking debates, connecting scholars and redefining how critical social challenges are framed and understood. It is a journal that is shaping the future rather than being stuck in the past."

MATTHEW FLINDERS, PROFESSOR OF POLITICS AT THE UNIVERSITY OF SHEFFIELD, UK AND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE POLITICAL STUDIES ASSOCIATION, UK

Global Discourse is an interdisciplinary, problem-oriented journal of applied contemporary thought operating at the intersection of politics, international relations, sociology and social policy. The Journal's scope is broad, encouraging interrogation of current affairs with regard to core questions of distributive justice, wellbeing, cultural diversity, autonomy, sovereignty, security and recognition.

All issues are themed and aimed at addressing pressing issues as they emerge. Rejecting the notion that publication is the final stage in the research process, Global Discourse seeks to foster discussion and debate between often artificially isolated disciplines and paradigms, with responses to articles encouraged and conversations continued across issues.

Consumption and Society

Volume 2 | 2023 | 2 issues

Co-Editors: Marlyne Sahakian, University of Geneva, Switzerland, Stefan Wahlen, University of Giessen, Germany and Daniel Welch, University of Manchester, UK

"Consumption is an increasingly important part of contemporary life, contributing to the most urgent problems facing the globe – climate destabilization, inequality, and the failures of capitalism. Scholars' previous paradigms for understanding consumption are increasingly inadequate, as we grapple with profound changes to how people live. This new journal will be an important outlet for the latest theory and research, and will help us to redefine the field."

PROFESSOR JULIET SCHOR, BOSTON COLLEGE, US

Consumption and Society publishes articles that advance understandings of consumption as a societal phenomenon, embedded in, and constitutive of, socioeconomic, material and cultural configurations. The field of consumption studies was an early touchstone for major debates on macrosocial change, especially around the issues of globalisation and aestheticisation. Following in this tradition, Consumption and Society aims to revitalise the relevance of consumption studies for the societal challenges of the 21st century. The journal contributes to debates on contested aspects of consumption, such as environmental impacts, digitalisation, the shifting balance of collective versus private consumption, commodification and inequalities.

Consumption and Society is affiliated with the European Sociological Association's Research Network on Sociology of Consumption (ESARN5) and the Sustainable Consumption Research & Action Initiative (SCORAI) Europe, as well as the British Sociological Association's Consumption Study Group. A key feature of the journal is to reflect the pluralism of these networks.

"The Journal of Poverty and Social Justice is clearly one of the best in the field, as I learned in preparing for my visit to the UK as UN Special Rapporteur on extreme poverty and human rights."

PHILIP ALSTON, FORMER UN SPECIAL RAPPORTEUR ON EXTREME POVERTY AND HUMAN RIGHTS, NYU LAW SCHOOL, USA

The Journal of Poverty and Social Justice provides an internationally unique forum for leading research on the themes of poverty and social justice.

Focusing on poverty and social exclusion, the journal explores links with social security (including pensions and tax credits), employment, area regeneration, housing, health, education and criminal justice, ethnicity, gender, disability and other social inequalities as they relate to social justice.

The journal encompasses an original and exciting mix of scholarly research articles and lively policy and practice-oriented discussions of topical questions.

Interdisciplinary and international in scope, the journal is essential reading for academics, students, policy makers and practitioners interested in poverty, social security, welfare and justice.

The Journal of Poverty and Social Justice welcomes submissions from those working in these areas across the globe. All research articles are peer-reviewed.

"Brings into focus two subjects that should be studied together. It provides a platform for informed, reflective and rigorously evidenced research and does so in a way that addresses issues that matter."

GERRY STOKER, UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHAMPTON, UK AND UNIVERSITY OF CANBERRA, AUSTRALIA

Policy & Politics is a world-leading journal that provides the primary outlet for scholars and reflexive practitioners to engage with the most pressing governance challenges inhibiting the continued advancement in the study of public policy and its practice. These challenges span the globe and link communities in a common struggle to realise and sustain human dignity and quality of life for all.

Policy & Politics serves scholars seeking an outlet that accepts these challenges and strives to overcome them. Three principles guide the journal:

- (1) comprehensive coverage of public policy, politics and social issues;
- (2) inclusivity in research approaches; and (3) relevance for science and practice.

"This much-needed innovative, inclusive and interdisciplinary journal fills an important gap in academic journals dedicated to global political economy. I have no doubt that Global Political Economy will make lasting and vital impacts on the debates."

SUSANNE SOEDERBERG, PROFESSOR OF GLOBAL POLITICAL ECONOMY, QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY, CANADA

Global Political Economy is the much-anticipated journal for the discipline of global political economy, with an explicit intention of cross-disciplinarity, spanning international relations, sociology, feminism and gender studies, political science, business studies, science and technology studies, communications, economics, geography and more, encouraging debates and discussions across these arenas.

The journal covers issues that concern people, whether inside the academy or outside of it, looking at the global political economy and its systemic contradictions, constant crises and upheaval. Global Political Economy will bring fresh insights into complex and often unseen modes, forms and operations of global power relations, social forces and historical change.
