

Key Issues in Social Justice

Series Editors: Kalwant Bhopal, University of Birmingham, Martin Myers, University of Nottingham, Karl Kitching, University of Birmingham and Kenzo Sung, Loyola Marymount University

This book series critically explores how issues of social justice, inclusion and equity shape modern day society. The series does so by delivering a forum for perspectives from historically marginalised and minoritised communities to challenge contemporary dominant discourses about social justice, inclusion and equity in the social sciences and aligned disciplines.

The titles in the series will be accessible monographs which will publish on broad topics, underpinned by research and theory, written clearly and accessibly. They aim to reach a wide market such as academics, students, policy makers, practitioners and activists.

NEW IN THE SERIES

Disrupting the Academy with Lived Experience-Led Knowledge

Welfare states are a major feature of many societies. This book draws on qualitative interviews with people receiving various working age welfare payments in Ireland to analyse welfare conditionality and explore stigma, social reciprocity and the notions of the deserving and undeserving poor.

Call for proposals

The editors welcome books from a wide range of different disciplines and research areas. The series seeks to showcase work that:

- Shows how social justice, inclusion and equity shape modern day society
- Gives voice to marginalised communities
- Places a spotlight on the work of under-represented groups
- Challenges hegemonic narratives that underpin western discourses about how best to reach a socially just society
- Are written by those who are from marginalised communities themselves.
