Global Perspectives on Philanthropy and Public Good

Series Editors: Tobias Jung, Shona Russell and Alina Baluch, University of St Andrews

Published with the Centre for the Study of Philanthropy & Public Good at the University of St Andrews.

From individuals such as George Soros, Sir Tom Hunter and Li Ka-shing, to organisations including the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and the Freedom Fund, philanthropists are more involved than ever in directing and shaping the public good. Offering an international and interdisciplinary perspective, this new series will examine where, how and with what impact donors, and their foundations, are playing an increasingly central role in solving pressing social, economic and environmental issues. The opportunities, strengths and challenges of philanthropic endeavours and the public good will be explored across cultures and contexts.

Books in the series will take a critical and reflective look at the contemporary ethics of charitable contributions. Research, policy and practice insights on alternative models and approaches to philanthropy will be discussed as the act of giving is reimagined, recast and rebranded for the 21st century.

Philanthropic Response to Disasters

Gifts, Givers and Consequences

Edited by Alexandra Williamson, Diana Leat and Susan D. Phillips

HB £85.00 ISBN 9781447362531

EPUB £29.99 ISBN 9781447362548

Mar 2023

This book is a step toward curating our existing knowledge in the emerging field of 'disaster philanthropy'. It aims to build a robust base for future research, practice and public policy, whilst recognising that philanthropic responses to disasters are complex, conditional and subject to change.

Call for proposals

The series welcomes both single-authored and edited volumes that clearly contribute to addressing the series' aims. Volumes in the series are expected to be around 80,000 words in length.

The series especially encourages contributions that:

- emphasise developments and insights from around the world;
- review countries or contexts that have received limited attention in the literature;
- offer comparative perspectives or convey an international outlook on philanthropy;
- offer new perspectives on or approaches to research, policy and practice.
